EUROPE HIGHLIGHTS

ITALY	The land of La Dolce Vita and the Eternal City Flavours, colours, smells, human warmth and the melodious language of romance - In short, Italy offers visitors a sumptuous feast for the senses. Italy retains an exceptional legacy from peoples who have occupied it throughout the course of its history. Over the centuries, it has seen great civilizations that still permeate Europe. Rome, Florence and Venice are particularly marked by this rich cultural heritage. Rome “When in Rome, do as the Romans do”– delve into the city’s many formidable museums and basilicas, tantalize your taste buds with the unparalleled flavour of Italy and surround yourself with the pervading sense of history that is the Eternal City. The range of landmarks within the bounds of the city is staggering: there is the grand Colosseum and lavish Vatican City, the Sistine Chapel and so much more. “Roma” is a magnificent combination of old and new, and positively hums with lively markets, cheery cafés and of course, traffic. Rome is testament to the momentous Italian past - whichever way you look, Rome will mesmerize, amuse and enlighten... and have you planning your next visit before you’ve even left. The Vatican City - The Vatican city is not only a truly spiritual place but is impressive for its grandeur, art and of course St Peters – the biggest church in the World. Also not to be missed is the Sistine Chapel, whose ceiling is home to Michelangelo’s mural masterpiece. Colosseum - Known to the Ancient Romans as the “Flavian Amphitheatre” this symbol of the Roman Empire was host to 450 years of gladiators, lion feedings and “games”. It is a truly impressive sight. Trevi Fountain - A beautiful rococo design, the Trevi Fountain is the place to stir romance. Legend has it by throwing a coin over your shoulder, into the fountain, you will return to Rome. Pantheon - Nearly 1900 years after its construction this 2nd century AD pagan temple to the gods is remarkably still intact. Converted to a church in 608AD, Marcus Agrippa’s extraordinary dome is the largest masonry vault ever built. Spanish Steps – Nicknamed Rome’s living room, the Spanish Steps are the perfect place to sit and people watch. Both tourists and locals can be seen sitting and relaxing on the steps that overlook the piazza. Florence What is it about Florence that gets pulses racing? Is it the feeling of sheer enchantment when you first see the mighty Duomo dominating the skyline, or perhaps knowing that you are surrounded by Renaissance artworks of the great masters? The clout of the Medici family is everywhere in the city’s features, extending from art to architecture to culture. It is this distant, celebrated past that has made modern-day Florence the thriving tourist centre that it is. With the opportunity to wine and dine in true Florentine style, visit historically colossal sights, gaze at artistic perfection and watch the sun set over the Arno, Florence is simply unrivalled. The Academy (Galleria dell' Accademia) - One of the best known art museums in Florence, The Academy is home to sculptures by Michelangelo, including the "David", "The four prisoners" and the "Pieta of Palestina". Duomo - This Italian Gothic cathedral was finished around 1367 and was originally completely covered with coloured marbles. The dome of the cathedral is an impressive sight on the Florentine skyline.

	Piazza della Signoria - Florence's best piazza, this busy square is a place to sip coffee and take photo's of the Fountain of Neptune. Palazzo Vecchio - This grand palace was home to Florence's most famous rulers - the Medici Family. The interior is filled with its treasures of Florentine art and history. Santa Croce Church - Built in the 14th century and started by St. Francis of Assisi, the church today entombs Florence's most famous historical figures including Michelangelo, Machiavelli, Rossini and a memorial to Dante. Outside you'll find numerous street vendors. Venice Venice is a dazzling blend of waterways, bridges, land and glorious architecture. For anyone in search of the past, you'll undoubtedly come across the astounding collection of Renaissance paintings, frescoes, mosaics and sculptures embellishing the interiors of basilicas and churches. And if you can't get there by foot, you'll get there by water. Bustling St. Mark's Square attracts flocks of tourists and pigeons alike, the intricacies of the Doges' Palace are magical... This age-old floating city is made from the kind of stuff fairy-tales are. Indeed, no amount of reading or flipping through picture books will prepare you for its breathtaking beauty. St Mark's Basilica - One of the most spectacular churches in the world the Basilica is adorned with Byzantine domes and gilded mosaics. Built in honour of St. Mark the city's patron saint, after his bones were kidnapped from Egypt in the 9th Century. St Mark's Square - Filled with café's, restaurants, pigeons and music - it's no wonder Napoleon dubbed this central gathering place as the 'finest drawing room in Europe'. Palazzo Ducale - The Palace of the Doges housed Venice's rulers for more than six centuries. It connects to the adjacent Prigioni Nuove ("New Prisons") via the Bridge of Sighs made famous by Lord Byron. Grand Canale - Venice is connected by 150-canals and 400-bridges. The Grand Canale is the most beautiful "street" in Venice and flows between opulent architecture - a gondola ride is a must do in this unique city.
SPAIN	The Land of Don Quixote With over 52 million visitors each year, Spain is one of the most visited countries on Earth. The Costa del Sol and Balearic and Canary islands have seen their tourist industries develop under the sign of the two most important divinities of the modern traveller: the sun and the sea. Further inland, the country varies according to the unique traits of each of its provinces: each community distinguished by its own specific character, and sometimes its own language. Towering 650m over the central highlands of Spain, Madrid is the country's capital city. With a population of 3 million inhabitants, Madrid is the political, economic and cultural hub of the country. Though it only has a few major monuments, it features more than 50 museums. The most renowned is the Museo del Prado, which dates from 1819 and is one of the most beautiful museums in all of Europe. Barcelona was built around its port on the Mediterranean Sea. The long-standing capital of the autonomous community of Catalonia, this city of 1.5 million inhabitants has always had its sights turned north towards Europe, making for a very unique identity, compared to the nation's other cities. The emblem of Barcelona lies in the northern part of the city, in the Eixample district: the Sagrada Familia basilica. Its construction was undertaken in 1884 and it remains unfinished. This stunning testament to the genius of its architect, Gaudí, is topped with spindle-shaped towers and bears witness to its creator's outlandish taste for symbolism and the exuberant shapes of nature.

	Hanging from the southern tip of Europe and facing Africa, Andalusia cultivates a strong personality inherited through centuries of travels, conquests and brilliant civilisations. Located at the feet of the Sierra Morena and Sierra Nevada mountain chains, whose highest summits shine under their perpetual snow, the region's palaces, mosques and gardens evoke the golden age of the Moor Kingdoms. The riches may have passed, but the cultural and natural landscape remains the same: flamenco, bull-fighting, unbridled ferias, arid mountains dotted with small villages and the beaches of the Costa del Sol. The sunny Andalusian coastline follows the Mediterranean Sea over some 300km, from Gibraltar to Almería, at the foothills of the Sierras. A veritable tourist Mecca since the 1970s, the Costa del Sol's mild winters and festive summer nights more than make up for its rather stony beaches. The political and cultural capital of Andalusia, Seville is an energetic little town that loves to celebrate its corridas and annual feria. During Holy Week, masked penitents lead a procession through the city's streets. Central to the city is its Gothic cathedral, third largest in Europe and built during the 15th century on the former site of an Almohad mosque. The cathedral features a funerary monument which is rumoured to contain the ashes of Christopher Columbus, though the fact is disputed by the cathedral of Santo Domingo, in the Dominican Republic, which also claims to hold the explorer's final remains. A historical and cultural anachronism, Gibraltar is an overseas territory of the United Kingdom whose population is largely catholic and Spanish-speaking. Covering a mere 6km², its territory, which is only attached to Spain by a long spit of sand, lies behind the famous rock which guards the strait that separates Africa from Europe. Slightly sloping towards the Atlantic Ocean, the Rock of Gibraltar constitutes a 425m vertical wall on its Mediterranean side. Visitors can learn more about the area at the Gibraltar Museum. Home to a number of more or less wild monkeys, the rock, which can only be reached by cable-car, offers an exceptional view of the strait and Morocco. Four of the 16 Balearic Islands are inhabited. The largest and most visited, Majorca (3,604km²), is also the one whose landscape is the most varied. Its capital, Palma, is located on the southern coast of the island and is surrounded by most of the major beach resorts. Minorca (680km²) is five times smaller than Majorca and much less frequented by travellers. The most easterly of the Balearics, it is a sparsely wooded low-lying island surrounded by craggy cliffs and magnificent coves. The island's capital, Mahón, is located on the eastern coast, above a large gulf. Legend has it that the city's name was the inspiration for the French word mayonnaise, which started appearing on French tables after France's 1756 conquest Minorca. The third largest Balearic Island is the "White Island" of Ibiza (572km²). Its uneven terrain and jagged coasts hide a myriad of isolated creeks. Discovered by hippies and artists during the 1960s, it is a major tourist destination which has nonetheless managed to retain its unique character. The contrasts are striking between the urbanizaciones that surround its beautiful teeming beaches, and the central inland area, where stepped fields abound in poppies in springtime and the farms and fortified villages of Arab inspiration recall Andalusia.

The Best Ancient Sites

The Acropolis (Athens): No matter how many photographs you've seen, nothing can prepare you for watching the light turn the marble of the buildings, still standing after thousands of years, from honey to rose to deep red to stark white. If the crowds get you down, remember how crowded the Acropolis was during religious festivals in antiquity.

Nemea (Peloponnese): This gem of a site has it all: a beautifully restored stadium, a handsome museum, and picnic tables with a view of the romantic Doric temple with its three long-standing columns -- and several newly restored and re-erected ones. If you're lucky, you may see Nemea's archaeologists at work lovingly reconstructing and re-erecting more columns from the temple's north facade in their ambitious restoration project.

Olympia (Peloponnese) & Delphi (Central Greece): Try to visit both Olympia, where the Olympic Games began, and Delphi, home of the Delphic Oracle. That's the only way you'll be able to decide whether you think Olympia, with its massive temples and shady groves of trees, or Delphi, perched on mountain slopes overlooking olive trees and the sea, is the most beautiful ancient site in Greece.

Palace of Knossos (Crete): A seemingly unending maze of rooms and levels and stairways and corridors and frescoed walls - the Minoan Palace of Knossos. It can be packed at peak hours, but it still exerts its power if you enter into the spirit of the labyrinth, where King Minos ruled over the richest and most powerful of Minoan cities and, according to legend, his daughter Ariadne helped Theseus kill the Minotaur and escape.

Delos (Cyclades): This tiny isle just 3.2km offshore of Mykonos, was considered by the ancient Greeks to be both the geographical and spiritual center of the Cyclades; many considered this the holiest sanctuary in all Greece. The extensive remains here testify to the island's former splendor. From Mount Kinthos (really just a hill, but the island's highest point), you can see many of the Cyclades most days and the whole archipelago on a very clear day. The 3 hours allotted by excursion boats from Mykonos or Tinos are hardly sufficient to explore this vast archaeological treasure.

Vergina (Northern Greece): In the brilliantly designed museum here, you can peek into what may have been the tomb of Alexander the Great's father, Philip of Macedon; nearby there are more than 300 burial mounds that stretch for miles across the Macedonian plain.

Messene (Peloponnese): This sprawling 4th century B.C. site has the best-preserved ancient fortification walls in Greece, an enormous Sanctuary of Asklepios and a stadium - and views of almost all Messene and Laconia from the summit of Mount Ithomi.

The Best Islands

Hydra (Saronic Gulf Islands): Old-timers keep waiting for Hydra, with its handsome stone mansions overlooking a picture-postcard harbor, to be "spoiled." After all, even before Mykonos and Santorini, Hydra was one of the first Greek islands to be

Chris Robinson Associates Inc does not warrant the quality, accuracy or completeness of any claims, statements or information contained within this document. This document was created at the time of broadcast and may not be current.

"discovered." So far, so good: donkeys still outnumber motorcycles, and the day-trippers who blitz the appealing harborside shops leave at twilight. That means you can almost always find the table you want at one of Hydra's pleasant small restaurants.

Crete: Whether for its rugged mountains or its countless beaches, its ancient remains or its ultramodern hotels, its layered history or its intense people, Crete cannot be denied. It is not just a distinctive Greek island -- it is a world unto itself.

Santorini (Cyclades): This is undoubtedly one of the most spectacular islands in the world. The streets of Fira and Ia are carved into the face of a high cliff, overlooking the circular caldera left by an ancient volcanic eruption and now filled with the deep blue waters of the Aegean. The site of Akrotiri offers a unique glimpse into life in a Minoan city, frozen in time by the eruption 3,600 years ago. Add to this the Fira nightlife scene, and you'll see why this is one of the most popular (and overcrowded) summer vacation spots in the Aegean.

Siros (Cyclades): This tiny island has it all: a vivacious, cosmopolitan capital town; thriving beach resorts; and a starkly beautiful region of farming communities, archaeological remains, and remote beaches to the north. Siros is also one of the centers of rembetika, a form of Greek traditional music with roots in Asia Minor; the Fragosiriani, a classic known throughout Greece, was composed by the Sirit Markos Vamvakaris, and you're sure to hear its simple and infectious rhythms many times during your stay here.

Rhodes (Dodecanese): The island of Rhodes has everything a visitor could want -- dazzling ancient and medieval ruins, great food, spectacular beaches, and the hottest nightlife outside of Athens -- the one drawback being that everyone knows it.

Skyros (Sporades): Winding roads and remote beaches, one main town and a few minor villages, some ancient legends and 20th-century tales: Skyros's charms remain perhaps the most elusive of the four Northern Sporades. But though the island remains a bit difficult to access and still not overstocked with touristy amenities, Skyros also offers both a living local culture and some natural wildness.

Corfu (Ionian Islands): Lush vegetation, some still undeveloped interior and unspoiled coast, ancient sites and a 19th-century presence, a dash of Italy and a dose of the cosmopolitan, Corfu is a Greek island like no other. Tourism may be rampant, but Corfu's attractions have survived worse.

Hios (Northeastern Aegean): You'd think that an island with such gorgeous beaches, exquisite medieval towns, and remarkable scenery wouldn't remain a secret for long. Despite the qualities that attract a small group of devotees year after year, Hios remains surprisingly quiet. If you like the idea of getting away from the tour buses, being alone on a beach to rival any in the Cyclades, and exploring towns that preserve the contours of medieval life, Hios is for you. Another benefit: the local hospitality hasn't worn thin here, as it has on many of the more heavily toured islands.

Sifnos (Cyclades): Sifnos is a green island of ravines, mountaintops, and pristine beaches. Despite its small size (a hardy walker can explore the entire island on foot), Sifnos has numerous attractive small towns which can be used as bases for your explorations. Apollonia, in the central hills, offers elegant small-town civility, with the added benefit of being the hub of an excellent public transportation system. Kastro, on its seaside rock, is the medieval locus of the island, while Platis Yialos is a quiet beach resort. Don't visit in August, when the island is mobbed with vacationing Athenians.

Athens: Birthplace of democracy, capital of Greece, Megalopolis...

The cradle of western civilization, Athens is a bustling city that attracts visitors with, among other things, its legendary classical temples; its museums displaying timeless works of art; the flower-filled balconies and Mediterranean streets of the Plaka district; and its crowded, lively taverns.

The political, economic and cultural heart of Greece, Athens is located in the southern region of the country. Founded deep in a valley, 7 km (4 mi) from the port of Piraeus, the city developed around the omnipresent hill of Acropolis.

The modern city of Athens surrounds the Acropolis. On a rocky outcrop stands the magnificent Ionic temple of Athena Nike, while the Parthenon prominently occupies the highest part of the plateau. The incarnation of Greek genius, the largest ancient Doric temple was dedicated to Athena Parthenos ("virgin") and built by architects Ictinos and Callicrates between 447 and 438 BC. On the north side, on the very site where the goddess defied Poseidon in their conflict over ownership of the city, is the Erechtheion, of Ionic style, famous for its portico of the Caryatids.

Of the several theatres of Ancient Athens, the Dionysus still remains. Located south of the Acropolis, this is where the words of Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides and Aristophanes once resounded. To the west, the restored Theatre of Herodes Atticus (a Roman theatre from the year 161) still presents concerts and shows. East of the Plaka, near the National Garden, visitors can admire the 15 remaining columns of the Olympeion, a monumental temple dedicated to Zeus.

The Plaka district, built under Turkish occupation, is the most popular and lively in Athens. Along its sinewy streets, Byzantine churches, taverns, bistro terraces, small, white houses and souvenir shops stand side by side. Farther north, the Plaka leads to Syntagma Square, the largest in the capital.

If you can only visit one museum during your trip to Athens, it should be the National Archaeological Museum, founded in 1874. Located in the northern part of town in a beautiful neoclassical building, it showcases impressive collections of marble, bronze and ceramic works, as well as treasures of all kinds. North of the National Garden are the Benaki Museum, the Goulandris Museum of Cycladic Art and, farther east, the Byzantine Museum, whose collection of icons is one of the most stunning in the world.

In Greece, the aperitif is taken around 8 or 9 p.m., so in Athens, it is not rare to see people walking into restaurants around 10 p.m. Highly convivial, its regional cuisine is rich in products of the land. Elegant, expensive restaurants are found in the city's western section, towards Kifissia, while in the Plaka, taverns provide both cuisine and folklore. Everywhere in Athens, you will find many cafés that still have an old-fashioned look, as well as bars and nightclubs that attract all types of individuals: young and old, artists and business people. Folklore-lovers shouldn't miss the Philopappos Theatre, between May and September. Another must-see from June to September is the Athens festival.

Canadian travelers' passports should be valid for at least six months upon entering Greece.

Buckingham Palace used for investitures and State banquets. All the State rooms are opulently decorated with some of the finest pictures, tapestries and works of art from the Royal Collection. The extended visitor route includes a 450 metre walk through the south side of the Palace garden.

Golf: For spectators there's a host of top-class action including the Open Championship, the World Matchplay Championship and the Ryder Cup. The world's very best can be seen in action on some of the oldest courses in the sport. But the real attraction for golf lovers is the variety and quality of the many courses available to play. You could be punching the air like Ballesteros did on the 18th at the Old Course at St Andrews when he won the Open Championship in 1987. Or would you rather recreate famous Ryder Cup duels at The De Vere Belfry in the heart of Warwickshire. And it's not just the famous courses on offer. For example the legendary St Andrews offers five other courses as well as the famous Old Course. The variety of other golfing challenges is amazing. You might choose to pit your wits on rugged, windblown seaside links courses offering stunning scenery of the British coastline. Many of these courses have barely changed for 100 years or more and are still as challenging as ever. If that doesn't take your fancy there are lush, parkland courses such as Wentworth in Surrey or Woodhall Spa in Lincolnshire, heathland links such as Walton Heath in Berkshire and up-to-date American layouts such as St Mellion in Cornwall, designed by Jack Nicklaus. The majority of courses are cheap to play and easy to book. Many businesses run complete golf holiday packages to cater for all your playing needs.

Cities:

London is the world's greatest city – and there's never been a better time to visit. The London Pass: from 12 pounds/day – free entry to 50 attractions, beat the queues

Bath: Superb Roman remains, a wealth of fine Georgian architecture and impeccable historic credentials. No wonder Bath is a World Heritage Site.

Birmingham in the 21st century is a city alive with the buzz of major European concerts and events, with the colour and designs of boutique shops and a pulsating nightlife.

Brighton: A sparkling mix of sea and city, Brighton is perfect for a short break at any time of year - all the fun of the seaside, in just under an hour from central London!

Bristol: Cosmopolitan, cool and cultural.... Bristol is a city of films and festivals, concerts and carnivals, theatres and museums, clubs and DJs, food and fun.

Canterbury: Historic cathedral city of Chaucer's Tales and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Great shopping, restaurants and other attractions will also greet modern day 'pilgrims' to this walled city.

Chester: Ancient, dynamic, traditional, exciting, Chester offers a fantastic break. Enjoy café society, classy architecture, world-class heritage, entertainment and festivals galore.

Liverpool: Familiar to many as the birthplace of The Beatles and the home of Liverpool FC, Liverpool is now attracting attention as European Capital of Culture 2008.

Manchester: First time visitors to Manchester are always won over by its stunning architecture, cultural attractions and legendary friendliness.

Newcastle: In the North East of England, Newcastle and Gateshead face each other across the River Tyne coming together at the dazzling Quayside.

Oxford: This ancient university city is both timeless and modern, its 'dreaming spires' and tranquil college quadrangles coexist with lively arts venues.

Portsmouth is a surprising place – the UK's only island city, combining centuries of maritime history with great shopping, eating and drinking, on a cosmopolitan waterfront.

Stratford-upon-Avon: Beautifully situated on the River Avon, Stratford-upon-Avon is the birthplace of England's greatest playwright, William Shakespeare, and home of the Royal Shakespeare Company.

York: Outstanding architecture and 2000 years of history combine with bustling

Government: Republic with 22 regions Currency: Euro - one Euro = $1.43 CDN (25 August 2007) Documentation: Passports Shopping: the best buys in France are: Beauty Products - at a "duty-free" (non-airport variety) store or a discounter where you can qualify for détaxe, you'll see anywhere from 20% to 45% melt off your bill. Paris offers the most duty-free stores and bigger discounts on name-brand goods, but any city with a tourist business, such as Nice, Cannes, Monaco, or Biarritz, has at least one discounter Crafts - The main faïence (earthenware) cities are in the north, stretching from Rouen in the northeast to Quimper on the Atlantic coast. Moustier Ste-Marie in Provence is known for a type of faïence with animals. You'll find tiles in the south; check out Salernes. Soap making is an art in the south, with soap makers dotting Marseille and Provence. L'Occitane, a Provençal brand, operates boutiques in Provence and Paris. You'll find copper cooking pots in northern France, especially in the Normandy village of Villedieu-les-Poêles, 35km (22 miles) south of St-Lô, near Mont-St-Michel. Copper-lined cookware has been made here since the 1700s, and dozens of stores sell huge amounts of the stuff. Northeastern France, near Strasbourg, is the home of Baccarat crystal, and Burgundy is known for its large hand-carved (and very heavy) furniture. Fashion - You can find knockoffs all over, at more than affordable prices, in the two major dime-store chains. Every major city has a Monoprix (owned by Galeries Lafayette), a Prisunic (owned by Au Printemps), or both. Food - You'll be safe with mustard; Dijon brims with choices, but any French grocery store will have a large selection of the Maille brand. You can buy chocolates in grocery stores, but if you want to know what everyone's raving about, save up a few euros and head to the chocolatiers in Lyon or Paris, preferably in the cooler months. You should consume handmade fresh chocolate within 3 days. In Paris, the big outlets are La Maison du Chocolat and Christian Constant. Kitchenware - Innovative kitchen appliances are promoted all over France, but their electricity requirements aren't compatible with North America's. However, the copper-lined casseroles and thick-walled roasters might last a lifetime once you recover from the shock of their prices. You can buy used copperware at almost any flea market. Copper polish is sold at markets as well. In Paris, hit rue Montmartre in the 2nd arrondissement (not in Montmartre) for a choice of kitchen and restaurant suppliers.

Perfume - Note that French perfume lasts longer than the Canadian counterpart of the same scent (it's made with potato alcohol, not grain alcohol), and most new scents are launched in France before they come to Canada.

Porcelain - head to Limoges (in the Limousin), where factory shops sell local wares and a few seconds. Note that factory shops are closed from noon to 2pm. In Limoges, look for Bernardaud and Raynaud; in Aix-sur-Vienne, there's the Ancienne Manufacture Royale de Limoges.

Tiping: The law requires all bills to say service compris, which means the total includes the tip. But French diners often leave some small change as an additional tip, especially if service has been exceptional. Some general guidelines: For hotel staff, tip 1.05€ to 1.50€ ($1.35-$1.95) for every item of baggage the porter carries on arrival and departure, and 1.50€ ($1.95) per day for the maid. In cafes, service is usually included. Tip taxi drivers 10% to 15% of the amount on the meter.

Transport: In Paris the metro is by far the quickest and most practical way of getting about 15 lines and around 300 stations.

High-speed train (TGV) - With a speed of 300km per hour, the TGV is one of France's technological pride and joys. Safe, punctual and comfortable, it allows travel to city centres in record time: Paris-Lille in 1 hour, Paris-Marseille or Paris-Bordeaux in 3 hours, Paris-Rennes in 2 hours. Please note that booking is obligatory, even if it is just before departure time.

Driving: on right as Canada; The Canadian driving license is valid for 3 months in France

Beaches: France has miles of Atlantic coastal sandy beaches, the fun Mediterranean coast, or the charms of Corsica36 resorts in our Seaside Holidays club have special offers – go to website to see what is on offer Biking: Paris has put a lot of emphasis on pedestrianised streets and has laid out paths reserved for cyclists and rollerbladers: widened bus lanes (used by RATP buses and taxis), safe cycle tracks. are appearing nearly everywhere, especially on the major roads. On Sundays the roads by the side of the Seine are completely reserved for pedestrians, cyclists, rollerbladers.

Timing: The best time to visit Paris is in the spring (Apr-June) or fall (Sept-Nov), when things are easier to come by - from Métro seats to good-tempered waiters. The weather is temperate year-round. July and August are the worst for crowds. Parisians desert their city, leaving it to the tourists.

Golf: France, a land of golf, has over 500 golf courses and still more are being designed. Courses have been created here by the top architects: Robert Trent Jones Snr & Jnr, Nicklaus, Hawtree, Pete Dye, Gary Player, Robert Von Hagge, Ronald Fream, Tom Simpson, Peter Alliss. From fairways overlooking the sea to glistening snow-covered peaks. Book tee times online at website.

Food: cooking schools in Paris – Le Cordon Bleu;

Nightlife: Opera; Crazy Horse Saloon; Folies Bergere; dance clubs; wine bars; Jazz clubs; Moulin Rouge; Lido de Paris

Those intending to visit the south of France, especially the Riviera, should exercise caution. Kids: Disneyland Paris – 45 mins by RER train; Paris Zoo; Eiffel Tower Chateau de Versailles – Hall of Mirrors History: 52BC Julius Caesar defeated Vercingetorix Museums: Paris has 134 museums!
GERMANY	Location: Central Europe, bordering the Baltic Sea and the North Sea, between the Netherlands and Poland, south of Denmark; coastline of 2,389 km; highest point: Zugspitze 2,963 m Languages: German; much English spoken Population: 82 million Climate: Germany is not prey to dramatic climatic extremes, although there are regional differences. The most reliably good weather is from May to October, with high summer a good bet for mid 20°C (low 70°F) shorts-and-t-shirt conditions, even in the north. Autumn is a good time to visit Germany. As the tourist scrum disperses and the forests turn golden, it's not too stifling to be active but still warm enough to leave you thirsty for a few well-deserved steins. Winter is frosty and wet, especially in the south, with snow rarely settling for long except in the high country. When to go: The shoulder seasons (from March to May and from October to early November) bring fewer tourists and often surprisingly pleasant weather. In April and May, when flowers and fruit trees are in bloom, it can be mild and sunny. Indian summers that stretch well into autumn are not uncommon. Government: The Federal Republic of Germany is a democracy with a liberal market economy, religious freedom and freedom of the press. It is a member of the European Union (EU) and of NATO. The Federal Republic of Germany is a federation of individual states. There are 16 "Bundesländer" which are federal states with their own government. Voltage: 230 V Currency: Euros - 1.00 Euros = $1.43 CDN (25 August 2007) Documentation: The passport must be valid for at least another four months after entry into Germany or the Schengen area. Shopping: there are so many things that make a shopping tour around cities like Munich, Hamburg or Berlin particularly special: German "originals", for example, such as BOSS, Meissen porcelain, Faber-Castell and Adidas. Traditional products such as Nuremberg gingerbread and the excellent German wines are also well worth seeking out. Tipping: It's common in Germany to round up the bill in restaurants or pubs. Since the introduction of the Euro, a tip of about 10% is customary if you were satisfied with the service. Taxi driver: 5%-10% ; Chambermaid: €2 per day ; Carrying luggage: €1 per piece Transport: Munich to Berlin by high speed train in 5 hours UNESCO Heritage Sites: 33 Beaches: The rugged North Sea, the gentler Baltic, life at an island pace, bracing air, more than 1,000 kilometres of beach and plenty of sun. Add to that, a never-ending choice of sports, spectacular events and nightlife into the early hours. History: The state now known as Germany was unified as a modern nation-state only in 1871, when the German Empire, dominated by the Kingdom of Prussia, was forged. Hiking: Germany is a traveler's paradise with its romantic forests, picturesque hill and mountain landscapes, and tranquilly embedded seas. possible. Along many of these routes are hotels and inns that provide specialized accommodations for hikers. Many trip-organizers offer comfortable "hiking without luggage" packages. Youth groups can frequently choose from various camps, leisure activities, adventurous hiking trips and youth educational programs.

Biking: The brochure "Discovering Germany by Bike" presents a variety of offers on the most attractive routes and regions. Sign posts, bike-friendly overnight accommodations, good bicycle travel maps and main information centers are only some of the important points covered in this catalog.

Golf: weekday green fees around $60 cdn

Food: lots of great regional dishes

Nightlife: Hamburg, Berlin

1,000 places to See before you die: Baden-Baden; Lake Constance/The Bodensee; The Alpine Road; The Romantic Road; Bamberg; Neuschwanstein Castle; Alte Pinakothek, Munich; Deutsches Museum, Munich; Oktoberfest; Passion Play of Oberammergau; Regensburg; Berlin Philharmonic; Brandenburg Gate; Berlin Museums; Sans Souci palace, Potsdam; The Zwinger palace, Berlin; Bayreuth Music Festival; The Rhine Valley; Cologne's Cathedral Quarter; Heidelberg's Schloss; Lubeck; Sylt island; Weimar

Health: Germany has excellent health care, but its cost is expensive - come with decent insurance.

Safety: normal precautions required, otherwise very good

Kids: very child friendly – castles, parks, zoos, boat rides

Cities: The five largest cities in Germany:
Berlin (capital of Germany) with 3,391,407 inhabitants Hamburg with 1,736,752 inhabitants Munich with 1,397,537 inhabitants Cologne with 975,907 inhabitants Frankfurt am Main with 657,126 inhabitants

Museums: Berlin has 175 museums alone!

Rail Europe: Euro Domino Pass or German Rail Pass for 4 to 10 days

Castle Hotels: Lots, eg on the Romantic Road

Music: In the field of music, Germany's influence is noted through the works of, among others, Bach, Mozart, Händel, Telemann, Schütz, Beethoven, Mendelssohn Bartholdy, Humperdinck, Nicolai, Lortzing, Brahms, Schumann, Wagner, Pachelbel, Offenbach, Furtwängler, Eisler, Reger, Strauss, Hindemith, Orff, Stockhausen, Henze and Lachenmann. Germany also has indulged in other types of music such as Hard Rock/Heavy Metal in which Oomph! and Rammstein are leading the way.

Festivals: Carnival - "Fasching", "Fasnacht" or "Karneval" are all terms used to describe carnival, an ancient tradition which is celebrated all over Germany but particularly in the Rhineland and in the strongly Catholic regions of Germany. Mainz, Cologne, Düsseldorf and Bonn are hotbeds of carnival fun.

Oktoberfest: Germany's biggest and best-known festival is the Munich Beer Festival, also known as the "Oktoberfest" and the "Wiesn". More than six million visitors flock to the Theresienwiese every year to drink beer from large litre tankards and eat pork sausages and pretzels.

History	Trafalgar Tours started almost by accident and for the first 12 years of its existence was known by the name of Industrial Recreational Services. Through the 60 years following its inception, Trafalgar has become a world leader in travel by continually adapting to bring their guests better touring experiences. 1947 - After leaving the army - where he had spent the war working in intelligence and personnel - Bill Nunn, Trafalgar's founding father sets up Industrial Recreational Services (IRS), organizing group travel and entertainment for industry. 1949 - IRS offers trips to the London Palladium to see Harpo Marx. The cost includes return coach travel and a reserved seat at the show for 12 shillings! IRS moves offices to 139 Grand Buildings in Trafalgar Square, the landmark which 10 years later would give the company its now familiar name. 1957 - The leisure side of the business gains popularity, Mr. Nunn and Mr. Appelby sell some of their shares to the Overseas Visitors Club in London and to Mosenthal, a South African conglomerate. It is here that the strong links between South Africa and Trafalgar were made, and which still contribute to Trafalgar's success today. 1958 - IRS starts operating European Coach Tours like the 21-day "Young Commonwealth Special". The Overseas Visitors Club (OVC) moves to Earls Court. For South Africans, the OVC in London becomes a home away from home in Europe. 1959 - The company changes its name to Trafalgar Tours. 1960's - At the height of the Cold War, Trafalgar organises tours to Moscow despite the difficulty in arranging visas. 1961 - Trafalgar opens its first overseas office in the heart of Johannesburg, South Africa. 1962 - Trafalgar charts Edinburgh Castle, a 1600 passenger ship, for a 14-day voyage from Cape Town to Southampton. The charter costs only £28, and the ship was double booked within a week. Several more charters follow over the next 3-years. 1964 - Trafalgar expands into new areas and the original partners sell their shares to Nick Tarsh. Mr. Tarsh, who had studied law and economics at Cambridge, sells Tan Travel and disbands the overseas sales offices.

Chris Robinson Associates Inc does not warrant the quality, accuracy or completeness of any claims, statements or information contained within this document. This document was created at the time of broadcast and may not be current.

	1966 - Rhodesia declares independence and Trafalgar loses money when charter flights between London and Salisbury come to an end. Mr. Tarsh flies to South Africa and introduces the concept of newspaper tours based on travel offers to readers and the first tour is a sell out. Mr. Tarsh revives the Union Castle Line charters between Cape Town and Southampton. 1967 - Newspaper tours are introduced to Australia. This market replaces South Africa as Trafalgar's most productive. 1970's - The Tollman family becomes involved with Trafalgar, and with their tremendous knowledge and experience in the travel industry, proceed to take the company to new heights. 1997 - New programs offer tours to a wider variety of destinations including North America, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand, South Africa and the Far East. 2004 - Trafalgar expands its European product with luxurious new "River Cruises" and revolutionary new products like experiences.
Europe and Britain	Shopping on the Champs-Elysee in Paris. A gondola ride in Venice. A visit to the Beer Halls in Munich. And eating tapas in Spain - are some of the "must see and do" experiences for every traveler. Trafalgar boasts 5 ways to discover Europe & Britain: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - First Class - Take pleasure in comfort on our premier tours - CostSaver - We pass savings on to you, so you enjoy a quality tour while benefiting from unbeatable value - River Cruises - Enjoy Trafalgar's River Cruises onboard intimate 4 Star luxury ships - Winter Escapes - Experience the best of Europe in winter with snow-capped mountains and Christmas lights - Breakaway for 21 to 38's - Discover vacations designed exclusively for 21 to 38 year olds
Winter in Europe	Trafalgar's new brochure for next winter is just out. Travelling to Europe in winter with Trafalgar provides some unique opportunities, such as visiting famous attractions at a more relaxed pace when cities are not as crowded, witnessing Christmas traditions and taking advantage of the new year sales. Trafalgar also has tours that allow you to catch some winter sun in destinations such as Italy, Spain & Portugal. Trafalgar's Winter tours run November 2007 - April 2008.
Tour Directors	Trafalgar's Tour Directors are amongst the finest in the industry. They are experienced travellers, learned historians and culture buffs. Their expertise and years of travel make them the world's best travel professionals. They are the ideal personal guides and can be relied upon for their good humour and adventurous natures. Through their in-depth expertise, you'll discover the history and be immersed in cultures of the places you visit. Your Tour Directors can help interpret, steer you towards the best bargains and give you those pieces of information that can make your holiday truly memorable. Whether it's the best shops for watches in Switzerland or arranging a gondola ride in Venice, they can be relied upon to help. They are there to make things smoother, more interesting and ultimately more enjoyable. They are your friend in an unfamiliar place.
Fellow Travellers	Trafalgar sells its tours in more than 38 countries around the world. It is therefore quite typical to find 6-10 different nationalities on any one tour. You'll forge new friendships with other Trafalgar guests from Australia, America, Canada, Europe, New Zealand, South Africa, Singapore, Japan, UK. There will be a maximum of 49 people on First Class, CostSaver and Breakaway tours throughout Europe.
Accommodation	A good night's sleep and a comfortable place to relax are invaluable when on holiday. All Trafalgar Hotels are carefully selected so you'll enjoy comfortable rooms and quality amenities. From arrival to departure, your Tour Director will take care of your check-in and check-out, as well as portage service for your luggage.
